Mumbai : Allcargo Group, an Indian born global logistics conglomerate, on the occasion of International Coastal Cleanup Day collaborated with its NGO partner, Swachha Vasundhara Foundation that is supported by the Maharashtra Forest Department, to promote maritime health and environmental sustainability. Over 1,000 volunteers took part in this initiative which included students from 18 colleges, NGOs as well as Navy personnel and NCC Cadets. The main activities carried out on this day were cleaning up Mangroves and beach at Carter Road along with contributing towards restoring an area of 2.5 acres that hosts vital mangroves.

Dr. Nilratan Shende, Head – CSR, Allcargo Group, said, “Our collaboration with Swachha Vasundhara Abhiyaan and the Maharashtra Forest Department reflects our unwavering dedication to environmental sustainability. Allcargo Group, through initiatives like Allcargo Greens and Maitree, is committed to eliminating waste, adopting renewable energy sources, and fostering responsible environmental practices.”

Allcargo Group remains committed to attaining ongoing carbon neutrality by 2040, one of its key Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG) goals. The group believes in the power of collective action and persuades everyone to join hands in contributing to a greener and better future. By aligning with the United Nations’ Sustainable Development Goals and Indian initiatives such as Swachh Bharat, Digital India, and Skill India, the group is committed to inclusive community development across six focus areas: Education, Environment, Health, Women Empowerment, Disaster Relief, and Sports.

Adarsh Reddy, Joint Director of Mangrove Foundation & Divisional Forest Officer of Mangrove Cell Mumbai, said, “We are very happy to witness such an overwhelming response from the community. While the government initiate such activities, the long-term sustenance of these initiatives depends on collective efforts. In Mumbai alone, we have 10 NGOs who have voluntarily rallied people to contribute significantly to environmental cleanup. It’s inspiring to see that this is a people-centric movement. I applaud, the efforts of Swachha Vasundhara Abhiyaan and Allcargo Group in this initiative and anticipate that as people become more aware of the environment, such cleanup initiatives will no longer be
