Forest Man of India Jadav Payeng writing book on the protection of environment

17 February 2020

Forest Man of India Jadav Payeng is now scripting a new conservation story – a book on the protection of the environment.

“It’s a small step from me to inspire millions of people on the conservation of the environment. The book is set to benefit students to get knowledge of forestation and the environment. I’m writing the book so as to make people aware of what environment exactly is and take initiative on their part to protect it. Assam is a state where the environment with the greenery around can be best understood. If we work for the conversation of the environment, it will certainly boost tourist flow to the State,” Payeng said.
